LAST OF BONDS ON NEW COUNTY JAIL PAID OFF

Adams County today was in possession of a perfectly good—but no longer needed—Sinking Fund Commission.

The commission Thursday paid off the last $8,000 still owing on the $50,000 in bonds issued in 1947 for the construction of the county's new jail.

And that leaves it without any further duties except to audit its accounts and disband.

That will probably happen in January when the county auditors begin their annual work. The county commissioners, the auditors and the county treasurer comprise the commission as set up in 1947 and since there will be no duties to be performed until audit time, the commission will probably not meet to disband until that time.

Have $4,000 Left Over

Final action of the commission will be to determine what to do about the approximately $4,000 still remaining in the fund. Officials said today that most likely that amount will be turned over to the general fund of the county.

And if it is, that amount will just about pay off the last bit of indebtedness of the county.

Thirty or more years ago the county borrowed $150,000—$50,000 to take care of needs of the county, $100,000 as the county's share toward purchasing the old turnpikes and turning them into the modern roads of today.

As set up at that time the $100,000 in bonds for turnpike purchases was to be paid out of the liquid fund. The $50,000 was to be paid out of general funds of the county over a long period, as the bonds matured.

SCHOOLS ARE BIG BUSINESS, PTA IS TOLD

"Schools are big business in the United States and they should be everybody's business," Gilmore B. Seavers, Cumberland County educator, told members of the Gettysburg Parent Teacher Association at an address at the organization's first fall meeting Thursday evening in the high school cafeteria.

Speaking on "Better Communities for the Children and their Families," Mr. Seavers who is supervising principal of the Cumberland Valley Joint School System at New Kingstown, emphasized the importance of cooperative action in a community and the importance of youth in community life. He referred to the "singular and collective contribution" made by church and home to the life of the community.

Referring to the "vital role" of the school in the community, he said the school can give a sense of community spirit, can provide children with a more complete understanding of their own community and can study community problems.

Plan To Raise Funds

The greatly increased birth rate and the growing percentage of pupils that continue through high school point up the importance of studying current school problems in every community, he said. The speaker was introduced by James R. Feather, chairman of the Program committee.

The new president, Mrs. Donald Sheely, presided and the opening devotion was conducted by the Rev. Harold V. March, pastor of Gettysburg. Mrs. Clarence Bartholomew sang two solos accompanied by Mrs. Donald Cordell.

Expect Agreement Today To Terminate 9-Year Old Pact On Occupation Of W. Germany

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—The western Big Three foreign ministers met with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today to draw up a general agreement—perhaps by nightfall—to end the nine-year-old occupation of Western Germany.

The final success of the complicated negotiations designed to enlist West German troops in a defense alliance against communism seemed assured after delegates agreed in principle yesterday on a compromise plan for controlled German rearmament.

Delegates predicted the conference would end successfully tomorrow. The delegates will leave behind groups of experts to work out details of the program and to draft the necessary treaties. These would

DR. FRANK BOHN IS U.N. DINNER SPEAKER OCT. 18

Dr. Frank Bohn, Blue Ridge Summit, will be the speaker Monday, October 18, at the United Nations Week Dinner to be held by the local service clubs at Gettysburg High School.

John H. Knickerbocker, in reporting at a meeting of the United Nations Week Committee at the Shetler House Thursday night that Dr. Bohn had accepted the invitation, said that he had served with the American Peace Mission at Versailles after World War I and had served with the U.N. during its organization "and as a result should be well qualified to speak of the U.N. from a background of knowledge of both the League of Nations and the U.N."

Members of the Lions, Rotary and Exchange Clubs will receive their tickets for the U.N. dinner through their clubs. The Soroptimist club will sell tickets for the event at its next meeting. Others wishing to attend the turkey dinner at $1.25 per plate are asked to telephone the chairman of the United Nations Week committee, Rev. Charles E. Held.

The committee voted to change the location for the United Nations Day observance to be held October 24 from the Peace Light to Christ Chapel on the Gettysburg College campus.

JUDGES FAIL TO APPEAR FOR TALK CONTEST

A planned elimination for the annual "talk-meet" held under sponsorship of the Adams County Farmers Association scheduled for Thursday night turned out to be merely a practice for the final contest to be held in connection with the Farmers Association convention October 13—the judges failed to appear.

The Senior Extension Club of the county had agreed to arrange for the preliminary event and hold it in connection with the Senior Extension session at Biglerville Thursday night.

Thomas Murren, Lyndale Brandon, Joel Korver, William Korver and David Harman were the contestants. Curious to "see how well the men would do," the Senior Extension had them give the talks as a practice when the judges failed to appear and Myles Starner, chairman of arrangements for the elimination,

REGISTRATIONS OPEN FOR KING, QUEEN CONTEST

Today marked the beginning of the registration period for the king and queen contest to be held in connection with the Halloween parade here October 27, Arthur J. Roth, secretary of the committee, announced.

Further plans for the Halloween event are scheduled to be completed at a meeting of the Gettysburg Association of Clubs delegates and other members of the Halloween committee Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Eagles home. All members of the group are urged to attend the session.

Engineer Urges New Span For Old

The report of Engineer James B. Long today apparently confirmed that Adams County will have one less wooden, covered bridge.

Long was called in by the county commissioners to examine Harb's Bridge, near York Springs, after a 15-ton truck went through its floor earlier this week.

Today he reported that in his opinion the bridge should be replaced with another structure. He estimated that it would cost "about $6,000 and you wouldn't have much more than you have now" to replace the bottom of the bridge.

While no decision was immediately reached by the commissioners, it is expected that they will follow the engineer's recommendation to replace the structure with another bridge. Final decision will be made within a few days by the commissioners.

Young Texas POW Gets Life For Collaborating With Reds

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Cpl. Claude Batchelor, who volunteered for Army service at 16, faces a life in prison, a sentence imposed by a general Court Martial that found him guilty of collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow POW's in Korea.

Batchelor has the right of appeal with his case subject to review. The thin, pale corporal embraced his mother and murmured, "I can take it," when the verdict was returned yesterday after the military panel deliberated his fate for 2 hours and 14 minutes.

Through his civilian counsel, Joel Westbrook, Batchelor told the board he had nothing to say concerning his conviction. Minutes later his sentence was assessed.

Prisoner 38 Months

Batchelor, 22, was a prisoner of the Chinese Communists by the time he was 18 and spent 38 months in their prisoner-of-war stockades. It was in that 38 months of confinement, his fellow prisoners said, that Batchelor took up the Communist line and tattled on other U.S. prisoners.

The Kermit, Tex., youth was one of 23 prisoners who refused repatriation and was one of two prisoners who finally sought United Nations sanctuary. Fear, he testified during his Court Martial, kept most of the other 21 POW's on the Communist side.

He was found guilty on three counts of collaborating with the enemy:

1. He was to have headed a Red-inspired postwar organization of former prisoners.

2. He accused the United States of participating in germ warfare in a letter to his hometown newspaper.

3. He took part in Communist study groups, circulated peace petitions in the prison camp and made propaganda broadcasts for the Chinese Reds.

He was convicted of informing

MASSER FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

A Franklin County jury shortly before noon today found Ralph D. Masser, 44-year-old Fairfield R. 1 truck driver, innocent of an involuntary manslaughter charge and placed the costs of his trial on the county.

Paul E. McFerren, foreman of the jury, handed up the decision to the court in Chambersburg at 11:55 o'clock this morning. The jury had begun its deliberations at 10:28 o'clock after the charge by the court and arguments of the attorneys.

Boy Was Killed

Masser had been charged with manslaughter after a Hagerstown boy died in a car-truck accident near Waynesboro on April 17.

Masser, represented by Attorneys Leroy S. Maxwell and Anson Good, took up defense of the case Thursday afternoon after District Attorney Rudolf M. Wertine had called a total of nine witnesses in an effort to establish that the fatal accident was the result of negligent operation

INDICT 15 IN MAGING CASE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An Allegheny County grand jury today indicted 15 state employees on charges they forced other state workers to contribute money to a Republican political campaign fund.

Among those indicted were Artemas C. Leslie, the state insurance commissioner and a member of Gov. John S. Fine's cabinet. Also held for trial was Frederick P. Hare, Fine's administrative assistant.

The 15 were among 18 persons recommended for indictment by a special Allegheny County grand jury.

Of those named in the recommendation, the grand jury refused to indict L. Merle Campbell, the state banking commissioner and a member of Gov. Fine's cabinet.

slowly for a line of traffic ahead.

Crushed By Wheel

The left front wheel of the truck mounted the back of the convertible, filled with a group of high school age boys and girls of Hagerstown. When the heavy truck wheel dropped into the back seat of the car it crushed Carl P. McMillen, 17, and pinned Martha Bryant, 14, to the floor. It was more than an hour before the girl was extricated. The McMillen youth was pronounced dead by Deputy Coroner C. P. Brink before rescue efforts were completed.

State Trooper C. J. Shovlin, the principal Commonwealth witness, quoted Masser as saying that he observed the convertible slacken its speed and that he applied both the emergency and foot brakes of the truck, then swerved his truck sharply to the right in an effort to avoid the crash. He said Masser was unable to explain the fact that there were no skid marks on the highway to substantiate his contention that the brakes were violently and suddenly applied.

He further quoted Masser as setting the speed of his truck, immediately prior to the accident, at "around 40 miles an hour."

At the time of the accident, Masser was en route from Hagerstown to New York City, his truck loaded with 20,000 pounds of miscellaneous freight.

ISSUES FARMER TO FARMER DEFY

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Republican and Democratic candidate for governor may meet in a ground plowing contest. But don't count on it too heavily, there are some strings attached.

Both Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood and Sen. George M. Leader, the Republican and Democratic candidates respectively operate farms. Wood in Montgomery County and Leader in York County.

Wood, issuing the challenge while campaigning this week at Tunkhannock, said:

"I'll out-plow him; I'll out-drive him on a tractor and I'll do anything better than he can on a farm."

Leader, conditionally accepting the challenge, said:

"I'd be delighted to enter a plowing contest with Mr. Wood at the proper time. But it seems to me that we should talk about the issues of his campaign first."

Leader, earlier in the campaign, challenged Wood to a face-to-face debate on campaign issues. Wood rejected the idea.

"DEAR ALBEN" RAPS IKE REIGN

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Charging the Eisenhower administration with "ineptitude," veteran Democrat Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky has opened his campaign for a fifth Senate term with a frontal assault on Republican domestic and foreign policies.

The 76-year-old Barkley told a rally at Shelbyville, Ky., last night the Republican regime "seems dedicated to big business" as he took aim at Eisenhower administration policies in the farm, labor, business, power and foreign fields. But in Montclair, N.J., Richard M. Nixon, who succeeded Barkley as vice president, said that "for the first time in 12 years the world is at peace and that's a great accomplishment for the Eisenhower administration."

Nixon, who has been stumping the country for GOP candidates for Congress, spoke at a reception for himself and Clifford P. Case, Republican nominee for the Senate in New Jersey.

Hassle In Nevada

In Nevada, a Democratic-Republican hassle was developing over the method to be used in selecting a successor for the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran, who died Tuesday.

Yesterday, Democratic Atty. Gen. William Mathews held "there must" be an election Nov. 2 to fill the Nevada Senate seat for the two years still remaining of McCarran's term. But the Republicans contend GOP Gov. Charles Russell should appoint McCarran's successor.

Late last night, the GOP State Central Committee choose a secret candidate for the Senate post. The committee's choice was reported to be Ernest Brown, a Reno lawyer. At the same time, the GOP group made plans to seek an injunction from the Nevada Supreme Court to block the Senate election. The Democratic Central Committee planned a meeting today to name its Senate candidate.

Robot Making Forecasts Better Than Weatherman Gives Promise

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—A robot that can make weather forecasts better and faster than a skilled meteorologist is one of the exciting possibilities today in the world where men are struggling for a better understanding of what the weather is going to do.

This robot is a high-speed electronic computer which will move out of the laboratory in actual operation by the U.S. Weather Bureau next spring.

Meteorologists hope the computer in time will open up a whole new vista of weather forecasting. They don't look for immediate sensational results, but they do expect that the weather man, with the robot's aid, will be able to predict more quickly and accurately whether cloudy or sunny skies will prevail tomorrow.

Forecast "Overlooked" Storm

One reason for their optimism is this:

In testing the machine at the Princeton Institute for Advanced Study, scientists found the robot had produced a weather map which predicted a sudden storm the forecasters themselves had missed.

Since then, the machine had made other forecasts so successfully that the Weather Bureau has contracted for an operational model which is being built by the International Business Machines Corp. The machine rental will run around $400,000 a year.

Dr. George P. Cressman, one of the Bureau's experts, talks of the machine which a sort of affectionate exasperation.

Not A "Wizard"

"Don't call this thing a 'brain' or a 'wizard,' because it isn't," he said. "Actually it's a stupid sort of creature. It hasn't the faintest idea what to do unless told. But if you tell it the right things, then it works."

"The machine will assist in forecasting whether it's going to be cloudy, rainy or clear. It can't forecast when rain will turn to sleet or what time the rain will stop. It can't compute the direction of a hurricane. We've still got a long way to go with our work."

The machine, in computing a 24-hour forecast for half the United States, makes 750,000 multiplications and divisions and 16 million additions and subtractions and performs roughly 30 million other operations in a matter of minutes.

Hopes For Future

Jerome Namias, the Weather Bureau's long-range prediction expert, is hopeful the mathematical method some day can be used in the long-range prediction field.

"Up to this time," he said, "we haven't been able to formulate our problem sufficiently mathematically to tell the machine what to do. We don't know enough about the equations necessary."

Namias pushed his forecasts ahead as much as 30 days. He hopes ultimately to make a reliable day-to-day forecast 30 days in advance—and to push the general forecasts out to cover an entire season.

We can get the calcium our bodies need from milk, cheese made from whole milk and some green leafy vegetables. Among these vegetables are broccoli, cabbage, escarole, kale, lettuce and water cress. The high oxalic acid content of spinach, beet greens and chard interferes with the assimilation of the calcium they possess; but these three vegetables offer other nutrients so they should also be used often in family diets.

RUSSIAN HAS ANOTHER ARMS SLASHING PLAN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (AP)—Andrei Vishinsky called last night for a step-by-step program of arms reduction with nuclear weapons to be eliminated at the halfway mark. The western Big Three cautiously termed the Soviet proposal a move in the right direction.

Winding up a policy speech of an hour and 40 minutes to the U.N. General Assembly, the chief Soviet delegate submitted a long resolution containing the most detailed and complex disarmament program his government has offered in the U.N.'s nine-year history.

Vishinsky brushed over President Eisenhower's proposal of an atomic pool for peaceful purposes. He said the United States so far has failed to come up with any concrete ideas on atomic weapon control.

Wants Treaty Drafted

The Soviet delegate asked the Assembly to have the U.N. Disarmament commission prepare a treaty for the Security Council providing for this program of arms reduction and elimination of nuclear weapons:

1. Agreement by the nations on total cuts they would make in their arms, troops and military appropriations and the accomplishment of 50 per cent of these reductions within 6 to 12 months;

2. Creation of a temporary international control commission under the Security Council to find out whether the nations are complying with the treaty;

3. The remaining 50 per cent reduction in conventional arms to be made within 6 to 12 months after completion of the first disarmament phase;

4. Manufacture of hydrogen and atomic weapons to cease as soon as the second period for arms reduction begins;

"Peaceful Purposes"

5. During this second period, the nations also would carry out "complete prohibition of atomic, hydrogen and other types of weapons of mass destruction . . . and their complete elimination from the armaments of states. Thereafter 'all existing atomic materials are used for peaceful purposes only."

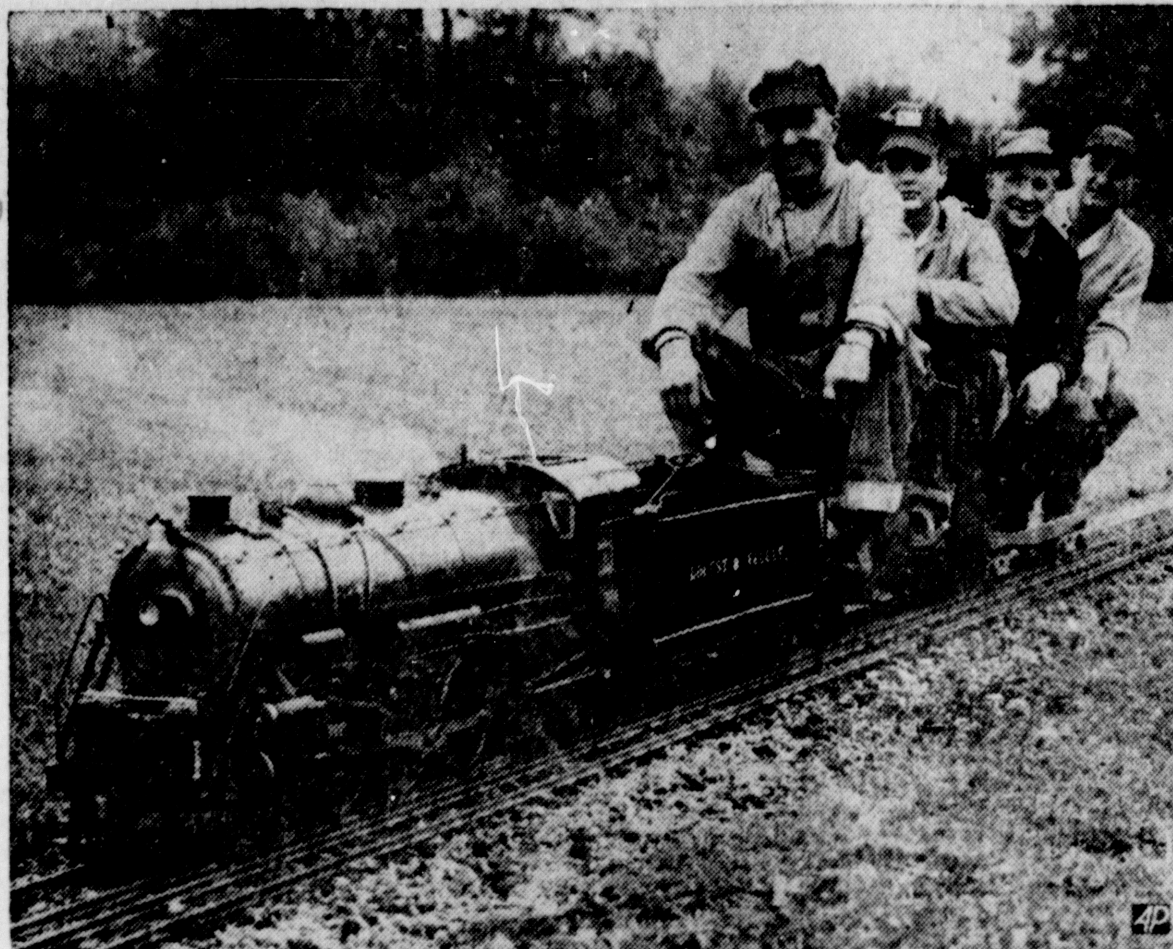

6. Creation of a permanent international control organ to check on continued observance of the treaty.

In contrast to his dismissal of the U.S. atom-for-peace plan, Vishinsky wound up by calling on the disarmament commission to make recommendations on the British-French proposal last June that U.N. members agree not to use nuclear weapons except in defense.

At the disarmament meetings in London last spring, Russia rejected the British-French proposal as a device to "legalize the use of atomic and hydrogen weapons under the pretext of using them in defense."

The Russian proposal brought quick, but guarded, reaction from delegates of the United States, Britain and France. All said they would give it careful study.

The United States produced a record total of 80,151,893 tons of finished steel in 1953.

VOID CHARGES AGAINST S.E.P. IN TUBES' DEAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission announced today that it has dismissed a complaint charging Sylvania Electric Products Inc. with discriminatory pricing of radio tubes sold for replacement.

Specifically it was alleged that Sylvania, of Boston and New York, charged its own distributors higher prices than it charged Philco Corp. of Philadelphia for tubes of like grade and quality.

Reversing a finding by a hearing examiner, the full commission held that Sylvania had established a defense of cost justification for the price differential. The FTC also ruled that supporters of the complaint had failed to present the required proof of competitive injury to distributors who had to pay the higher prices.

Recommended Dismissal

The examiner had recommended dismissal of a section of the complaint which had charged Philco with unlawful inducement and receipt of discriminatory prices, holding that there was "insufficient" proof. The commission backed up that finding.

All five of the commissioners joined in the results of today's order but Commissioner James Mead noted his nonconcurrence in "the reasons for the dismissal" as stated in the opinion by Commissioner Albert A. Carretta. Chairman Edward F. Howrey said he will file a separate concurrence.

The commission, in granting Sylvania's appeal from the examiner's findings, noted that the appeal was not opposed by counsel supporting the original complaint.

"Weighted Average"

The FTC ruling was based in large part on a decision to approve a "weighted average" system of figuring costs for all of some 600 types of tubes involved, and not to deal with them one by one.

Carretta's opinion said that "some of the price differences appear to be more than cost justified while others are not entirely cost justified." In the aggregate, however, he held that the differentials were justified by a Sylvania cost accounting study.

And he said counsel who backed the original complaint now say it is clear that "the discriminations which are not fully cost justified are largely with respect to a limited number of tube types which are not sold in substantial volume."

FRIENDS' MEETING

Friends' meeting has been announced for Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Huntington Friends' Meeting House in Latimore Twp., near York Springs.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 37-year-old Navy warrant officer, Roscoe Robert Reed, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on four counts of using the mails to defraud in a lonely hearts swindle.

Postal authorities, who arrested Reed on Sept. 25, said he mailed hundreds of mimeographed letters to women whose names he acquired through lonely hearts clubs, asking them to send him $20 to qualify them for an inheritance in a fictitious $20,000 estate.

The indictment was returned yesterday on the basis of letters which it was charged were sent to four women, including Ida Hipple of Spring City, Chester County, Pa.

The letters were signed by Henry C. Roller, "private attorney," a name under which Reed rented an apartment in San Francisco, postal inspectors said.

Reed came to the San Francisco area early this month from San Diego on the U. S. S. El Dorado, an amphibious command ship which is being overhauled at the Mare Island Navy Yard.

If convicted, Reed faces possible maximum sentence of five years in prison and $1,000 fine on each count.

MAY FACE COURT TEST ON STEEL MERGER BLOCK

By STERLIN F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may face a court test of its disapproval of a proposed two-billion-dollar merger of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, in announcing the decision yesterday, said the Justice Department had decided a Bethlehem - Youngstown combination would reduce competition in the steel industry.

Youngstown President J. L. Mauthe replied by voicing the opinion the consolidation would increase competition rather than lessen it. And Bethlehem President Eugene Grace issued a statement saying the companies "are actively exploring what further action may properly be taken to make the merger possible."

Held Beneficial

"We still feel strongly that the proposed merger would be beneficial from the standpoint of the national economy, national defense, the steel industry and the Bethlehem and Youngstown stockholders," Grace said.

The firms could revise the merger plan, not yet submitted to stockholders, to take advantage of a loophole left by Brownell. His ruling applied to a merger "in the form proposed and under present conditions."

Mauthe's statement indicated also that a court test was being considered. He noted that Brownell's position was based on a 1950 revision of the Clayton Antitrust act "which has not yet been interpreted in the courts."

Looking For Good Case

The 1950 change to which he referred is one which outlaws a merger tending toward monopoly even if executed by the purchase of the assets of a company instead of by a transactions in stocks.

Stanley Barnes, chief of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division, told newsmen recently the department is "anxious" to find a "good merger case" which would provide a court test of the 1950 law.

The administration is known to have studied carefully, from the anti-monopoly standpoint, recent big mergers and acquisitions.

Brownell's 60-member advisory committee on the antitrust laws is due to submit recommendations within a few weeks which may be the basis of an administration request for a broad revision of antitrust legislation.

The new physician, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Knox, Gettysburg, R. 3, is a graduate of Gettysburg High School in the class of 1929 and was graduated from Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, in 1934. He completed his studies in the University of Maryland medical school four years later.

In July he finished his internship at St. Joseph's Hospital in Philadelphia.

The president, Mrs. Dunning Ide, will preside. Plans for the coming year will be discussed and committee appointments made.

Dr. William Sundermeyer, professor of German at Gettysburg College, will be the guest speaker. Included in the program will be a group of piano solos by Mrs. Paul A. Kinsey.

Serving on the hostess committee will be the members of the executive board as follows: Mrs. Idle, Miss Virginia Barton, Mrs. Henry T. Bream, Mrs. Mervin U. Bream, Miss Anna Cairns, Mrs. Glenn L. Today's Talk

KEEP GETTING BETTER!
I believe it is true of most of us that, as we get on in years, we are apt to slow up, not only in the expenditure of our energy but in the renewing of our ideas and thoughts. The mind should forever remain fresh and hopeful. This is one thing that assures a constantly increasing health and personal happiness.

All through life we should keep getting better and better. I have found that continual interest in public affairs and in literature—through the reading of a few good magazines and books—is one way whereby the mind is kept alert, active, and hopeful. I like to think of the example of the late Justice Holmes. The President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, called on him and found him translating a Latin classic. I believe it was, "He told the President he was doing it 'just to exercise my mind!'"

Nothing is so stimulating as a multitude of interests. The active mind has no time in which to mess up its precious substance by worrying, complaining, and useless bickering. Its objective is to keep getting better, and thus more useful in every way. Great executives are usually men and women of few words. And so are busy people.

Thomas Edison was one of the most industrious of any man of his time. He ate sparingly, and took his sleep "on the run," as one might say. Yet he had so many ideas that he was constantly working out that he took very little time out, so interested was he in an endless number of inventions. No wonder he lived such a long, useful life. With each oncoming year he seemed to be getting younger and better!

Something seriously is wrong when we no longer are interested in the living issues of the day, and in all that is transpiring to make life healthier and happier. All of us have our problems, but if they are faced courageously and solved in the best way we know, we need have no fears as to the final outcome of our lives. We just have to bear in mind to keep getting better, day by day, in every way!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Give All You've Got!"

Just Folks

COURTESY
Though courtesy is highly held
And people everywhere admire it,
By law it cannot be compelled.
No power can force us to acquire it.

We can't be jailed for being rude.
In that no court is interested.
Who chooses to be coarse and crude
For that will never be arrested.

No statute says we must be kind.
No judge insists on manners regal.
For arrogance we can't be fined
And selfishness is not illegal.

True courtesy's a gentle art
That values taking, less than giving
And they who have it, mind and heart,
Have found the way to gracious living.

"MY WIFE SAVES EVERYTHING," SAYS SCRIBE

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, (AP)—I married a string saver.

Some people say there is nothing worse than a spendthrift wife, but a saving wife can give a man some interesting problems, too.

My wife has developed an inability to throw anything away. She saves everything. She even has preserved our marriage license.

But she specializes in saving string, paper bags, newspapers, medicine bottles and old silk and nylon stockings.

These things pile up in such quantities that every seven years we have to move to a larger apartment, simply to have space to store her collections.

It does me no good to reason with her. If I ask her about the stockings that now overflow three drawers, Frances says, "Oh, I'm going to mend them all at once one of these days."

Many Medicine Bottles

After being married to a newspaperman 17 years she naturally has a big collection of medicine bottles—particularly aspirin bottles.

"Can't throw them away," she said. "They're useful to take along on trips." But we've got enough to last us through a round-trip to Mars.

"But, in heaven's name, why do you need all those paper bags?"

We not only have paper bags stored in the catch-all bin beneath the refrigerator. We have a number cooling in the refrigerator itself.

"Oh, you never can tell when you'll need a paper bag in an emergency."

String To Anchor Ship
We have enough balls of string now in our home to anchor the battleship Missouri, but I no longer dare point this out to my wife. She's a little touchy on this subject, ever since I read her an article that said people who saved string were often stingy.

"Saving string is inherited in some families," she says. "Most everybody in our family starts saving string after the age of 30. My father did, and his father did before him. It's not a sign of stinginess at all. It just shows commonsense. Everybody ought to keep plenty of string handy."

Lately I've adopted secret tactics. Each morning while she's feeding the baby, I stuff one paper bag, an empty medicine bottle, an old nylon stocking, and a small ball of string in my pocketbook. Then I snatch a couple of her old newspapers and hide them under my coat. On the way out the building I throw them all into the incinerator.

So far Frances hasn't missed a thing.

I hate to do this, but I'm desperate. I simply have to clean out some of that junk. You see I save a lot of things myself, particularly old bus transfers. And there isn't a place in the house where I can find room for my collection.

WOOD PLEDGES PROGRAM FOR CLEAN STREAMS

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, Republican gubernatorial candidate, today promised to "push forward" the commonwealth's clean streams program if elected governor.

"It is most important that we preserve our water resources because of their key role in almost every phase of living," he said. "That is why the long-range war the Republican party has waged against stream pollution is so imperative."

Wood recalled that he voted for legislation several years ago to put teeth into the anti-pollution program, adding:

"Long before that law was enacted, I was in the thick of the fight for clean streams because they are so important to the health and welfare of our commonwealth."

He said "nothing is further from the truth" than the statement of his Democratic opponent, Sen. George M. Leader, that the anti-pollution program will be allowed to collapse if Wood is elected governor.

Will Fight Pollution
"I have fought polluters in the past and will continue to do so in the future," he said.

Last night, Wood pledged at Bloomsburg that he would continue home rule in Pennsylvania.

"One of the fundamental principles of the Republican party is home rule," he said. "Down through the years the Republican party has fought the battle against centralization of government."

Wood attacked Leader as "talking out of both sides of his mouth" in discussing home rule.

"Does it sound like more home rule when he talks about the state government taking over slum clearance, the problem of local transportation, parking, water supply, treatment of sewage, recreation and urban development?" asked Wood.

Antonelli Throttles Tribe For 3-1 Victory; Cleveland Is Dejected; Giants Take 2

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were a poor security risk today, and they knew it. The special train which rolled through the night to bring manager Al Lopez's dejected troops back to the home folks and the third game of the World Series was a very unhappy equipage.

Not only were the once-proud American League champions down 2-0 in games to the surprising Giants, but they were down as well to the third and least vaunted member of their "Big Three" pitching punch, Mike Garcia. They knew they were in bad trouble, and could only hope they were about to come out of the hitting slump which had left 26 of their number stranded on the Polo Grounds bases the last two futile days.

Giants Are Confident
As for Leo Durocher's Giants, they came out of yesterday's convincing 3-1 victory over Early Wynn dead certain they had at least an even chance of closing it out by tomorrow night.

Their second pitcher, young Johnny Antonelli, had throttled the Tribe in the pinches after seeing his first pitch knocked clear out of sight by Al Smith, Cleveland's left-fielder. Today they were going with Ruben Gomez, the sad-eyed Puerto Rican screwballer who won 17 games in his sophomore season. His teammates firmly believe he would tie the Indians in knots.

Seldom, surely, has a World Series seen such an abrupt and early change in fortunes. It is difficult to realize that the Cleveland club, winner of 111 games, opened the series only two days ago as nearly 2-1 favorites. The failure of Lopez's sluggers to hit with men on base has been incredible.

Had 4 Hits
Almost equally incredible had been the success of Durocher's men in that respect. They solved Wynn, the 23-game winner, for only four hits in the second game—half as many as the Tribe socked off Antonelli. Yet only one of them was wasted, and only three Giants died on the sacks.

Antonelli pitched a gritty game. The young lefthander could have glanced at the Giants' bullpen almost any time during the afternoon and see at least one of his hill mates getting ready. But at the end the bonus kid from Rochester, N.Y., still was master of every situation.

Dusty Rhodes, the pinch-hitter extraordinaire who broke up the opener with his dramatic 10th inning homerun, again stuck the knife deep into the visitors.

Rhodes Homers Again
It was Rhodes who knocked his fellow Alabamian, Willie Mays, across with the tying run in the fifth, and put the frosting on the victory with a towering smash against the right field facade in the seventh. He's now within one of the series record for pinch hits.

As it happened, Antonelli had the privilege of knocking in the winning run as well as blinding the Indians with his fast ball and sweeping curves every time they threatened. Johnny's batting effort was only a force-out grounder to second-base in the big fifth, but it was sufficient to bring Hank Thompson dashing home from third with the big run the Tribe never got back.

There is little doubt the Indians are being seriously handicapped by the manifold injuries of their star third-baseman, Al Rosen. So far Al has contributed nothing much to his team's attack, and he is so stove up in one leg that his presence on the bases is more of a hindrance than help.

Bobby Avila Fails
But he has not been the only one to fail Lopez. Bobby Avila, the American League's leading hitter, had punched only two singles and left two men stranded with third-outs yesterday. Larry Doby, the team's left-handed power, struck out three times in the second game, the third time with two aboard and none on in the ninth.

It could be said with equal justice that Willie Mays also had been a batting bust. The Giants' biggest gun hadn't delivered anything resembling a hit. But again yesterday Willie played an important part in the triumph by drawing a lead-off walk in the fifth—the first man to reach first off Wynn—and scoring the tying run on Rhodes' drooping single to center.

The second game did not quite equal the opener in sustained tension, despite all the threats the Indians made to knock Antonelli loose. After his team gave Johnny a 2-1 lead there somehow was a feeling that he wasn't going to need any more help.

Though Cleveland three times got a man around to third, Johnny simply refused to falter. He struck out nine, at least one in each inning except the seventh.

2 Title Playoff Baseball Series Will Open Sunday

Opening games in a pair of championship baseball series will be staged Sunday afternoon at Bendersville and Fairfield.

Wenksville and Greenmount will meet on the Bendersville diamond at 2 p.m. in the best-of-three series to decide the playoff titlist in the South Penn League. Wenksville eliminated Munnaburg, regular season champions, in two straight while Greenmount duplicated against Taneytown in the semi-finals.

Cashdown will play at Fairfield at 1:45 to open another best-of-three affair for the Pen-Mar League playoff championship. Cashdown gained the final series by taking two in a row from Blue Ridge Summit, regular league titlist, while Fairfield took two straight from Emmitsburg.

BOLTS HOST TO YORK CATHOLIC

The Fighting Irish of York Catholic High invade Memorial Field this evening at 8:15 in a non-conference football game with the Littlestown High School Thunderbolts.

York Catholic, with a record of one win and two losses, was defeated by Harrisburg Catholic 19-0 last week, in a game in which there were several Green and Gold players absent due to injuries. Neither quarterback Phil Itoze, with an injured hand, nor end Ray Tuleya, nursing a badly bruised shoulder, was in uniform. Don Schubert, end, starting in place of Tuleya, suffered a sprained left wrist. John Horner, fullback, was injured on the kickoff and sidelined for the night.

On the other hand, Coach Wilbur Gobrecht reports the members of the Littlestown High School squad in fine shape. School officials announced the lighting system on Memorial Field has been repaired and the game will be played as scheduled.

HARRIS WILL PILOT TIGERS

DETROIT (AP)—Bucky Harris today was named manager of the Detroit Tigers. He succeeds Fred Hutchinson, who resigned yesterday after refusing to accept a one-year contract.

The 58-year-old Harris was released as manager of the Washington Senators last week.

Harris managed the Tigers from 1928 to 1933. He never finished in first division.

In making the announcement, President Walter O. Briggs Jr. of the Tigers said:

"Harris comes to us highly recommended. He agreed to a one-year contract."

Harris has a long career as a major league manager. He was called the "boy wonder" when he guided the Washington Senators to the American League pennant in 1924-25.

The Tigers offered Harris the general managership in 1946, but he turned it down.

Harris also has managed the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Phillies and San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Harris won the American League pennant with the Yankees in 1947. After finishing third in 1948, he was fired by the Yankees.

With Detroit, Harris finished sixth, fifth, seventh, fifth and fifth. Despite this mediocre showing, he reportedly built the foundation which led to Detroit's pennant winning years in 1934 and 1935.

SAYS YORK HAS "SUBVERSIVES"

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Sen. George M. Leader, Democratic candidate for governor and the York Chamber of Commerce have denied a statement by Atty. Gen. Frank F. Truscott that York County "harbors the worst nest of subversives in the country."

Truscott, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, made the statement in a campaign speech Wednesday at Wellsboro. Questioned for details by reporters later Truscott replied, "I have nothing more to say on the subject. They (York countians) know full well what the situation is there."

Leader said in a statement issued at York last night:

"If Atty Gen. Frank Truscott has proof that York County harbors the worst nest of subversives in the state, he should act with all speed to clamp the lot of them in jail. 'All of us in York County who stand firmly against communism and its insidious influence upon the course of free democracy, will applaud Mr. Truscott if he can put the finger on the reds who are working underground in an effort to overthrow our form of government."

Bullets Open Season With Bucknell At Lewisburg In Night Game On Saturday

Nine lettermen are included among the six Juniors and five Seniors who are scheduled to be in the opening lineup for the Gettysburg College Bullets when Bucknell University is met at Lewisburg Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the opening football game for the Bullets.

Coach Johnny Yovisin announced today he will use the following opening lineup:

Ends, Fred Alleva, 165, and Dick Lewandowski, 182; tackles, Bob Finnegan, 210, and Hart Beaver, 220; guards, Carl Beck, 180, and Bill Weitzel, 205; center, Sheldon Yingst, 205; quarterback, Frank Gagliardi, 175; halfbacks, Ernie Paliszewski, 155, and Mike Duka, 170, and fullback, Bob Eppelman, 165.

The Seniors are Finnegan, Beaver, Beck, Weitzel and Eppelman. Non-lettermen are Lewandowski and Duka.

The Bullets completed four weeks of pre-game workouts today and the squad is reported to be in good physical and mental condition for the opener.

8-Game Win Streak
Gettysburg will carry an eight-game winning streak into the contest last night to Delaware in the opening game last year. The Bullets finished the 1953 campaign with eight straight wins for their best season in history.

Bucknell was very impressive in routing Muhlenberg 33-13 in the Chocolate Bowl game at Hershey last Saturday evening.

Coach Harry Lawrence considers his present squad the best to represent Bucknell since the Bison swept to an undefeated season in 1951.

The current squad is typical of Bucknell squads and will pack plenty of poundage to give it a weight advantage over the Bullets.

All members of the line are lettermen and include Ken Tashly and Rich Klaser, ends; Bob Antkowiak and John Rotelle, tackles; Captain John Chironna and Hank Popek, guards, and Roy Gavert, center.

The backfield will be composed of Ron Hendricks, quarterback; Bob Sier and Jim Stewart, halfbacks, and Bob Ford, fullback.

Saturday's game will mark the 39th in the series between the schools with Bucknell holding a 25-11-2 advantage. Last year the Bullets drubbed the Bisons 26-13.

The Gettysburg squad will leave here by bus for Lewisburg at Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Several hundred students and fans, as well as the school band, will follow the team to Lewisburg.

Maryland Plays UCLA Tonight But Grid Fans Keep Optics On Purdue-Irish Game Saturday

By ED WILKS
Maryland and UCLA, both ranked among the nation's top ten, open a full weekend of intersectional tests tonight in Los Angeles, but the game that really excites the imagination of college football fans is scheduled at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow.

That's where Notre Dame, still in the process of proving the ability of young Terry Brennan as head coach, lines up against Purdue, a team seldom mentioned among the nation's best, but always "up" for the Irish.

It was on a bright October afternoon just four years ago that the Boiler makers crushed Notre Dame's proud 39-game winning string—a performance that marks them for special attention by Brennan, who made an impressive entrance to big time coaching with a 21-0 victory over Texas last week.

Irish Lead Nation
That opening success made Notre Dame the No. 1 choice in this week's Associated Press poll.

While the clash between Notre Dame and Purdue, a winner in a breeze against Missouri last week, waits for the kickoff, the weekend action gets under way in a big way with tonight's game between fourth ranked UCLA and sixth-ranked Maryland.

The Terps, dropped two notches in this week's rating after an idle weekend, were easy winners over Kentucky in their opener. The U-clans, defending champs of the Pacific Coast Conference, have scored 99 points in two starts, defeating San Diego Naval Training Center and Kansas.

That's the only game matching teams listed in the top ten, but except for Oklahoma, rated No. 12, all the other leaders are scheduled.

On tomorrow's schedule, Iowa, ranked No. 4 on the basis of its 14-10 victory over Michigan State last Saturday, slips away from Big 10 Conference action for what

JR. HIGH GRID TEAM BOWS TO SQUIRES 20-6

The Gettysburg Junior High School football team dropped its opening game of the season here Thursday evening when the Delone Catholic Freshmen scored in each of the first three periods for a 20-6 decision.

Coach Ned Brownley's inexperienced lads staved off a shutout by scoring in the final seconds when John Sauter went over from the 6-yard line. A long pass, Earl Little to Ken Keefer, had placed the ball in scoring position.

Gettysburg took the opening kickoff and picked up a pair of first downs via end runs to reach the Squires' 20 but an off-side penalty proved costly as Delone braced to take over on the 21. The Squires moved quickly for a score, Mann hurling a pass to Wierman on a 35-yard play for the tally. A pass for the point failed.

Later in the first period Delone took possession on the Gettysburg 30 via a punt. After moving to the 2-yard line, the visitors' scored on a plunge by Washington. Wierman plunged for the point.

A recovered fumble on the Gettysburg 10-yard stripe set the stage for the third Squire tally early in the third quarter. Mann tailed from the 1-yard-mark on a quarterback sneak. He added the point on another line smash.

Next Thursday the locals journey to Bolling Springs for their second game.

The lineups:

Tackles—Thomas, Kimple.

INDIAN HOPES RIDING WITH GARCIA TODAY

CLEVELAND (AP)—The World Series shifted westward today but the weatherman sent along the same weather that prevailed for the second game in New York between the Giants and the Cleveland Indians.

The temperatures hovered in the high 70s and the humidity ranged even higher. Clouds produced overcast skies with the sun breaking through occasionally during the morning warmup.

Ruben Gomez (17-9), a clever Puerto Rican right-hander and second biggest winner during the regular season for the Giants, drew the nod for the third game from Manager Leo Durocher.

Crowd Show

Al Lopez, two down after playing two, put it up to Mike Garcia (19-8), last of his big three pitching staff and also a right-hander. Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, the first two, went down to losses in the New York contests.

Although Cleveland officials still talked hopefully of a crowd of nearly 80,000, the stands were slow in filling and two hours before game time there were huge gaps in the bleacher seats. All reserved and box seats, totaling some 55,000, have been sold for days.

Weather Forecast

Extended forecast for Saturday, Oct. 2 through Wednesday, Oct. 6:
Eastern Pennsylvania, eastern New York and Mid-Atlantic states: Temperature will average 2-4 degrees below normal north and 3-4 degrees above normal south, warmer south, cooler north Saturday, cooler Monday followed by somewhat warmer Wednesday, rain in north Sunday and showers in south Sunday and Wednesday will total 1/2-3/4 inch.

Western Pennsylvania, western New York, Ohio and West Virginia: Temperature will average near normal south and 2-3 degrees below normal north, cooler north Saturday, little warmer Sunday, cooler Monday and warmer again Wednesday, rainfall will total 1/2-1 inch on Sunday and Wednesday.

Wallace Favored To Defeat Baker

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coley Wallace of New York and Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, each hoping to earn a match with the No. 1 heavyweight challenger, Nino Valdez, meet tonight in a nationally televised 10-round bout at Central Armory at 10 p.m. EST.

Wallace, who once defeated Champion Rocky Marciano while both were in the amateur ranks, was a 2 to 1 favorite over Baker and you could get even money that the bout would not go the distance.

Baker currently is ranked ninth among the heavyweight contenders. Wallace, at present, is unranked. Wallace has knocked out 15 men, while Baker has 18 to his credit. The Pittsburgh fighter once won a decision from Valdez.

Sidelights Of World Series

CLEVELAND (AP)—Could be the sight of their home ball park will inspire the Cleveland Indians. They won 59 games and lost only 18 in Municipal Stadium during the regular season for a sparkling .766 percentage. The Giants road record was 44-33.

At least you won't hear much about Chinese (short) home runs the next few days. The Municipal Stadium dimensions are 320 feet to right center and 320 to the right field fence.

The 1954 series attendance is running behind last year's, but today's crowd should even things up, at least. The Polo Grounds pair drew 101,850 customers compared with 136,160, who saw the first two games in Yankee Stadium a year ago.

With 26 runners left on base in two games, the Indians are fast approaching the series record. The standards are 33 for a four game series, 42 for five games, 51 for six and 63 for seven games.

Incidental regular season info about today's scheduled starters: Garcia pitched 13 complete games, had five shutouts, struck out 130 and walked 71. He gave up 16 hits in 12 innings in his last appearance.

Gomez had 10 complete games, had four shutouts, 103 strikeouts and 109 bases on balls. Ruben allowed four hits in three frames in his final showing of the 54 season.

Mexican Senator Jose Rodriguez Claveria, saddened by the two losses the Cleveland Indians suffered at the hands of the Giants in New York, stepped off a plane at Cleveland Hopkins Airport last night and proclaimed:

"I have come to Cleveland to regain my happiness."

Claveria, top man in the Mexican Senate, is a particular fan of Bob Avila, the Indians Mexican second baseman.

MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
International League Finals (Best-of-7)
Syracuse at Montreal, ppd (Syracuse leads 3-2)

NEW YORK (AP)—Dusty Rhodes is getting accustomed to being a celebrity.

When he first was projected into the limelight as a result of his fantastic pinch hitting performances, he was uneasy and a little bewildered.

In the clubhouse of the New York Giants after they beat the Cleveland Indians, 3-1, to take a 2-0 World Series lead yesterday, Rhodes, who hit a homer and a single, was as relaxed as all get out.

Not A "Chinese"
Of his home run, a really solid poke, Rhodes said:

"He (Cleveland pitcher Early Wynn) threw me five knucklers. He wasted one fast ball. It was a knuckle ball I got hold of."

"But I was only following orders. My son told me to hit one for him before I left home."

Rhodes seemed happiest that his home run wasn't of the "Chinese" variety, meaning a short one like the one he hit to win the first game.

Credit To Westrum
While Rhodes was drawing the huzzas, many of the Giants pointed to Catcher Wes Westrum as one of the big reasons why Leo Durocher's outfit won the first two games. He has been doing a fine job handling the pitchers.

"We won the game," said the modest Wes. "What more would anybody want. Johnny Antonelli pitched a great game. He was a little wild in the early innings, but from the fourth on, his fast stuff was his best and we went for that."

"The Indians left 13 men on base again. That ought to be the answer to the kind of pitching Johnny did in the clutch. I don't want any credit. He had to throw the ball."

Gloom Thick For Indians
Over in the Cleveland dressing room, you could cut the gloom with a knife.

Al Rosen, the big man of the Indians' batting order, was disgusted with himself.

"I don't know what to do," he said. "I want to play, but I'm not helping the club one minute I say to myself that we ought to get a healthy guy in there. Then I think that this is the World Series and you never know when you might get into another. Then I want to play."

Rosen has a bad muscle pull in his right thigh and he failed to score in the first inning from second on a clean single by Wally Westlake. He was held up at third and never did get all the way around.

Lopez Discouraged
"I know Willie Mays made a great throw on the play," he grimaced. "But if I were healthy I could have scored on it. There aren't many who can beat me going from second to home. Mays would have needed more than an arm to get me."

Manager Al Lopez was understandably discouraged.

"The balls are falling in the right places for them," he said. "They are getting hits, even if they are cheap hits, and they are getting them at the right time. We've hit the ball hard at times, but it goes right at their fielders."

Co-Authors Of Book Say Oppenheimer Curbed New H-Bomb; Another Says No

By D. CREAGH
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The J. Robert Oppenheimer controversy lives on.

In some ways it blazes even hotter than ever, three months after the famous scientist was barred by the Atomic Energy Commission from further access to the government's atomic secrets.

Some high octane fuel has been added to the flames with the publication of a new book, "The Hydrogen Bomb." The authors, James Shepley and Clay Blair Jr., say the United States lagged behind Russia in developing the H-bomb. And they say Oppenheimer, in the days when he was a top scientific adviser to the government, is the man most to blame.

Oppenheimer declines to talk about the Shepley-Blair book. But he has his firm defenders. And two of those criticized along with Oppenheimer in the book—Gordon Dean, former chairman of the AEC, and Dr. Norris E. Bradbury, head of the Los Alamos Weapons Laboratory—say with considerable heat that Shepley and Blair don't know what they are talking about.

Called Security Risk

The four AEC members who rang down the curtain on Oppenheimer said he was a security risk. They said he had (1) defects of character, and (2) too many friends who were also friendly to the Communists. One of the four expressed the opinion Oppenheimer was disloyal. The fifth member, who has since resigned, found on the contrary that the World War II atom bomb builder was completely loyal.

Two other journalists who have gone into the matter present a totally different viewpoint. Joseph and Stewart Alsop, writing in Harper's magazine, say Oppenheimer got a raw deal. They call the AEC's handling of the case disgraceful, and they say AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss has been out to "get" Oppenheimer for a long time.

Strauss (pronounced "straws," by the way) has made it no secret that he started the process which ended in Oppenheimer's ouster. Now there develops a new angle: Strauss also confirms he tried to stop publication of the Shepley-Blair book. He's a wealthy man, and he offered to buy the manuscript and lock it in his safe for 25 years or so.

Strauss Is Hero

Why? "I thought it would be better if the book were not published," is all he will say. But Strauss is one of the heroes of the book. The authors say we might not have the H-bomb yet but for the efforts of Strauss and a few others. Why then should he want the book suppressed? If he was in the market for manuscripts, why didn't he approach the Alsop brothers, who don't—to put it mildly—make him the hero of their piece?

There is more than one mystery in all this strange business. Maybe some of them will be cleared up when, as and if the secrecy label is taken off some of the documents

REVIEWS HUGE SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM IN PA.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The director of the State Bureau of School Administration says Pennsylvania's present day school building program is "bursting at the seams."

John J. Hertz, appointed director Monday, told the Education Conference at its closing session yesterday that more than half a billion dollars in new school projects is now on the drawing boards for construction by 1960.

Hertz, who succeeded E. A. Quackenbush as head of the bureau, told the educators another half billion dollars already has been committed in approved projects, with an additional 160 millions awaiting approval.

Lands Construction Work

"One of the basic reasons is the development over the past 25 to 30 years of an acute need for new buildings," he said.

"The lack of any building activity during the 1930s and 1940s, the relatively small size of school districts, their lack of wealth, and the constitutional limitation of their borrowing power were formidable and constant factors in retarding a much needed modernization."

Hertz lauded the work of school building authorities in providing construction.

Such authorities have been established in every county of the commonwealth, except Philadelphia, Montclair and Wayne.

Ceiling Reached

"The proper tool for financing school buildings was finally provided because the need for it had reached the point of extreme urgency," he said.

He referred to establishment of authorities and of a plan to provide state aid for school building construction.

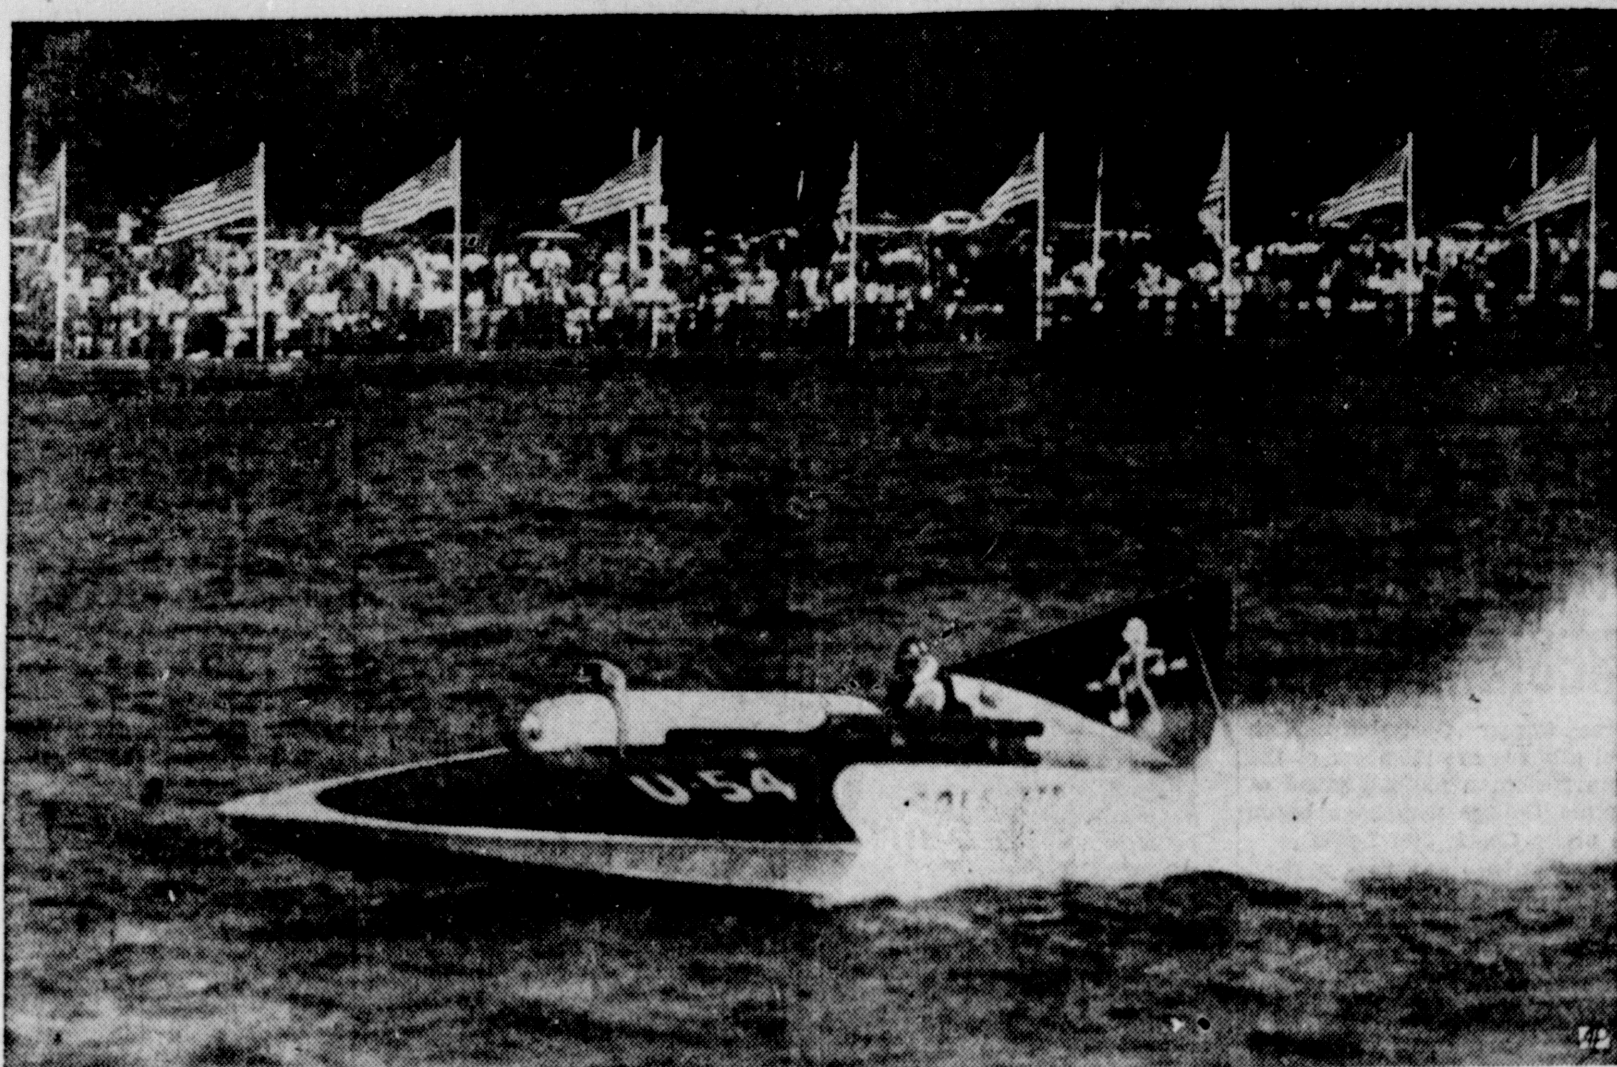

The 1953 Legislature imposed a 45 million dollar ceiling on authority-financed projects which can qualify for state aid. The ceiling was reached nearly a year ago.

Hertz made no mention, however, as to whether the department will recommend that the ceiling be increased.

to bolster Adenauer's sagging political stock at home.

The chancellor's strong Socialist opposition, which opposed West Germany's entry into NATO, picked up important votes after France's recent rejection of the proposed European Army plan.

Experts Draft Guide

The four ministers had before them recommendations prepared by their committee of experts as a guide for framing a grant of sovereignty.

Informants said Dulles and Mendez-France appeared ready to go along with a proposal by Eden for an immediate Big Three declaration of intent to wind up the occupation as soon as the control system is prepared.

Meantime, the Allies would restore without delay additional political and economic rights to the Germans, in return for guarantees from Adenauer's government covering:

1. An agreement to work out a common policy with the three occupying powers before entering negotiations with the Russians for a peace treaty and reunification of Germany.
2. Approval of continued Allied administration of West Berlin.
3. Permission for Allied troops to remain in Germany as part of the NATO defense force against Communist aggression.
4. Safeguards against the growth of big industrial cartels and other economic developments which might foster a revival of German militarism.

Adenauer also has indicated he is ready to satisfy French demands for a guarantee that the proposed 12-division German army would never be used independently in any attempt to take over Communist-ruled East Germany by force.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester Pearson told newsmen during a recess that the question of Germany's entry into the Brussels pact and NATO "has been settled in a way satisfactory to everyone."

Giving additional details of agreement on controls of the German army within NATO, a British Foreign Office spokesman said the ministers decided that the seven-nation armaments authority would have authority to set the upper limits of the armed forces of continental members put into the NATO pool.

But Britain would be exempt from this provision because of overseas commitments. France and Belgium were given at least partial exemption for the same reason. All three would have the right to raise forces outside their NATO requirements to meet foreign commitments.

West Germany would be bound to commit all its forces under NATO command.

JURY PONDERS MACING ACTION

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An Allegheny County grand jury debated today whether to return indictments against 18 state officials and employees accused of forcing state workers to make political campaign fund contributions.

A special session of the grand jury was held last night to complete presentation of evidence and testimony. The panels power to indict runs out next Friday.

A special grand jury recommended indictment of the 18 June 30, heard four days of secret testimony from some 50 witnesses.

Among those recommended for indictment are Insurance Commissioner Artemas C. Leslie, Banking Commissioner L. Merle Campbell—both members of the governors cabinet—and Frederick P. Hare, Fines administrative assistant.

those bonds were callable, because the county has had more than enough on hand for several years to pay off the amounts. But the bonds called for payments on specific dates and that could not be changed. On some of the bonds, interest payments have exceeded the principal of the bonds, but they go on until their maturity date.

As an indication of changes in the county's credit and interest rates during the years, the old turnpike bonds called for 4 1/2 per cent interest; the jail bonds were sold at a 1 per cent and at a premium, making the actual interest rate less than one per cent.

The final $6,000 of the amount borrowed decades ago to run the county will be paid off September 15 of next year, when the last bond comes due and then the county will be entirely free of debt for the first time in many, many years. The last bond on the turnpike portion of bond issue was paid off several years ago.

JOB'S STRUGGLE TO UNDERSTAND LIFE

Job 1:1; 19:7-10; 23:3-10

Key Verse: You will seek me and find me; when you seek me with all your heart. Jeremiah 29:13.

The lessons for the current quarter are selected from Old Testament books: Job, Proverbs, Psalms and Ecclesiastes. They cover such topics as: Search for God; Everyday Religion; Prayer and Praise; the Sum of Wisdom.

Somewhere east of Palestine, and sometime between the years of Abraham and Moses there lived Job. He was a man of enormous wealth. He was also a man of piety.

Adversity fell upon him. He lost his wealth, his family and finally his health. A particularly loathsome form of leprosy seized his body. Then came an attempt to understand the meaning of suffering in life. Why should a man, especially a good man, suffer? God's own testimony concerning Job (Job 1:8) is "that there is none like him in all the earth."

The author of the book of Job takes up the problem. The result is a drama that ranks first with many scholars. Thomas Carlyle says: "I call this book—one of the grandest things ever written. Our first, oldest statement of the never-ending problem: Man's destiny, and God's way with him here on the earth."

To interpret Job's suffering is not an easy matter. First we think of his own reaction. He was a religious man. In spite of his great possessions he was humble before God, and he was a faithful worshipper, often making special sacrifice to God. So we are surprised to hear him cry out "There is no justice." But we must remember that Job was in great agony and despair. We recall the Saviour's cry from the Cross, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" When humanity has almost reached the end of suffering it is natural to use extreme language.

Job felt a distressing loneliness: he had for the moment lost his God: "Oh, that I knew where I might find him!" What earnest religious man has not had such moments of desperation? But the afflicted man came to himself, as it were. He knew that he would not be separated from God permanently. God had not forgotten His faithful servant. So clear as a ringing bell Job declared his abiding faith: "But he knows the way that I take; when he has tried me, I shall come forth as gold." Trials, such as Job endured, are effective purifiers of character, if faith does not fail.

How did Job's wife explain the deep tragedy? According to the record she made short shrift of the whole matter. "Curse God and die," was her counsel. Such a view is not common, but it is sometimes held. God has forgotten or neglected. There the incident ends, when faith is shallow.

Job's misfortune and affliction became known far and wide. People came to see him. Three "friends" are recorded to have passed much time with him and offered their interpretation. Job was a sinful man. Therefore his sufferings, they concluded. While Job did not claim sinlessness he did not agree with the three "friends." The purpose of suffering is not to punish the sinner or why would so many flagrant sinners go free, and prosper? In Job's case God called him the best man on earth. Yet his affliction was extreme.

Job felt he had lost contact with his God. "Oh, that I knew where I might find him," he explained in his anguish. He would then find the solution to his burdensome problem. To all who seek Him the Lord has this encouraging word: "You will seek me and find me; when you seek me with all your heart."

The nicknames Bobby or Peeler for police officers derive from Sir Robert Peel who first organized London's Scotland Yard in 1829.

I AM AN ENGINEER

I am an engineer and this is my family. We have much to be thankful for—good health, our good country, a comfortable home, a good job and good friends and neighbors.

My greatest pride and happiness comes from my home and my family—Susie, my wife, and little Susie and John. We have ups and downs, like other families, but on the whole we fare pretty well. Best of all, we have each other.

I read an article in a magazine which said no nation could be completely destroyed which maintained the integrity of its homes. Nations begin to decay when they lose the stabilizing influence of the family.

That is not going to happen to our home if we can help it, and I think we can. We try to make it the best place on earth for each other and a pillar of strength for our community and country. We laid its foundations in God and religion.

Families that are bound together by love and religion do not break up. These ties grow stronger with the passing years. So we go to Church and worship God, and put our lives and hopes in His hands.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

How Smart Cavewoman Can Sew Like A Professional

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Sewing has come a long way since the Cavewoman punched a hole in a fishbone, threaded with a piece of animal hair and laced together her new spring bearskin.

With today's equipment, even our cavewoman could sew like a pro. Modern electric sewing machines are equipped with adjustable tensions and stitch regulators. Needles and threads come in many sizes to stitch fabrics in all weights from chiffon to sailcloth.

Added Problems
However, today's home seamstress faces problems no cavewoman was ever called upon to solve. She must know when to use a smaller needle, what tension is required for what fabric, when to lengthen the stitch and what thread to use. With these suggestions from local sewing center experts, some of the problems should be solved.

Always test a scrap of fabric before beginning to sew, for all adjustments are regulated by the weight of the fabric you are working on.

Always use the longest possible stitch for machine basting. In using mercerized thread, select a color one shade darker than your fabric. Although there is a narrower color range in nylon thread, it is so fine that the nearest color usually blends perfectly with your fabric.

Modern Needles
Cleopatra used a needle of solid gold to stitch a garment for Mark Antony, and needles of fine steel were not produced until the 16th century. Today's needles, ranging in size from the thickness of a hair to that of a slender nail, stitch everything from gossamer fabrics to heavy machinery belting. However, machine needles used in home sewing range from size 9 to size 18. The most used needle size is 14.

Be sure you select the needle that is right for your machine, and that you follow directions carefully when setting in a new needle.

The correct needle size is important, for if the needle is too fine for the thread or the fabric, it may break. A needle too large for the fabric will leave a series of holes along the seam.

First Thread
The first thread was made of fibers twisted together by Swiss lake dwellers, 25,000 years ago. Today's threads of finely mercerized cotton, smoothly twisted silk strands and durable nylon offer the home seamstress a wide choice of weights and colors. The most used thread, available in the widest color range, is size 50 mercerized.

The sewing machines of today adjust to a wide range of stitches per inch, ranging from 6 to 24 or 30; 12 to 16 machine stitches per inch will be right for most sewing. The medium weight materials fall into the dress category: gingham, chintz, light wools such as challis or fine worsteds, linen or faille. For these fabrics, use a medium tension. The stitch should be lengthened for heavier fabrics, as the fabric thickness shortens the appearance of the stitch.

Sheer materials require a smaller needle, preferably size 11. Use 16-20 stitches to the inch, and continue with mercerized thread in size 50.

Fabric Problem
If your fabric is black or white, you may use 80 to 100 thread, but this size is available only in these two colors. If you use nylon thread, remember to ease the tension. Light summer fabrics are classified as medium sheer: lawn, organdy, batiste, pure silks, or handkerchief linen.

The sheerest fabrics of all fall into the filmy class. Among these are net, marquisette, chiffon, and nylon sheers. For these, use 20 or more stitches per inch, a number 9 needle, and 100 cotton or nylon thread.

Heavy fabrics quite naturally require a heavier needle, thicker thread and a longer stitch. Upholstery fabrics and heavier coatings and suitings such as tweeds, cotton velvet or fleeces require a size 16 machine needle. Use about 10 stitches to the inch, and heavy-duty thread.

Coarse Fabrics
The coarsest fabrics of all are heavy canvas, awning cloth or duck. These require six-cord thread, a size 18 machine needle, and 6 to 8 stitches per inch.

Plastic and synthetic materials require special handling. When sewing on plastics, use a very fine needle, preferably size 9 or 11. Mercerized cotton thread is best, as the elasticity of nylon thread might cause the plastic to pucker. Synthetics, in most cases, may be sewed equally well with either mercerized cotton or nylon thread. However, in a stretchy fabric such as nylon tricot, nylon thread is recommended. Loosen the tension, and use about 10 stitches to the inch.

Silk Thread
Nylon thread is excellent for any fabric which involves a number of bias seams, as the elasticity of the thread matches the elasticity of the fabric. Jersey fabrics, either silk or wool, respond well to nylon thread. Local sewing center experts remind you not to use a very hot iron when pressing seams stitched with nylon thread.

Silk thread may be used for sewing

WARM-UP—This 76-pound snapper, taken by Gerald White of Dexter, Mich., while practicing, would have won championship if caught during spear-fishing tournament, Miami Beach.

on fine silk fabrics, or on wools. Since both silk and wool are animal fibers, silk thread will react similarly to such processes as dry-cleaning and dyeing. Silk thread is available in size A and buttonhole twist only. For best result when machine sewing with silk threads, make tension slightly less than normal.

In earliest times, only royalty possessed fine clothing, because only royalty could afford to pay for the months of hand labor that went into the fashioning of a garment. Today, however, the sewing machine has made it possible for any housewife to dress like the First Lady.

With the many sizes of needles, colors of thread, and types of sewing machines available at her nearest local sewing center, even a beginning seamstress can stitch anything from batiste to buffalo—and give it a professional finish.

HOUSEWIFE'S ECONOMY HAS FORCED COFFEE PRICE TO DROP

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

We've done very nicely these last few months demonstrating to the coffee growers and coffee speculators that, no matter how much we love the product, we can't be shoved around.

The American housewife, bless her, sat down like a stubborn mule when prices went soaring way above $1.00 a pound. The result has been that the price of green Brazilian coffee beans has dropped a dime from its high of 96 cents.

When it went up, the coffee people explained suavely that it was unfortunate but nothing could be done about it. Frost had nipped the crop, bugs were chewing it up, all sorts of things were happening at sources over which there was no control.

However, as soon as several million American women cut down on the number of cups they were brewing, the price quietly slid down.

Continue Holdout
Although there was considerable explanation and much public pacifying as retail prices zoomed up, no one has been taising any flags at the slip in the prices of green coffee—and retail prices haven't followed suit.

As it turns out, our battle is only partly won, fellow coffee drinkers. If we want to see a return to old-fashioned retail prices we've got to continue our coffee strike.

A coffee man, who prefers anonymity, predicts that coffee prices will remain about what they are—$1.30 upwards for the vacuum-packed, and around $1.20 for the bagged—unless we can, by stern self-discipline, further depress the green coffee market by several cents a pound.

Cut Down Consumption
So far, by drinking about 10 per cent less coffee than a year ago, we've continued to spend about the same amount of money for coffee as we did before the big increase in price. What we've got to do now, if we want retail prices cut, is reduce our individual budgets for coffee not only cut consumption but the amount of money we spend for it.

This will be very unpleasant to those who speculate in coffee, but, says the coffee expert, it will bring retail coffee prices down in a hurry, regardless of red glory like a beacon light.

Best example of stick-to-itiveness as far as hair dos is concerned is Mamie Eisenhower. By refusing to cut off her famous bangs—her trademark through the year—she has set a trend for women everywhere who'll try anything at least once if it's the fashion.

SILVER JEWELRY PROVES A GOLD MINE TO WOMEN

By ADELAIDE KERR
The Associated Press

Silver jewelry solved two different money problems for two different New York women.

When Natalie Blatt was stuck with a statistical job, which she felt fenced her in, she turned to jewelry as a means of self-expression. Hard work and study followed. Today her output of silver necklaces, earrings, bracelets plus her work as a Christmas card designer, support her.

When Mrs. Ella Wolchonek wanted a hobby that would produce pin money, she turned to the study of silver jewelry making at YWCA craft classes here. Her husband, a mathematics professor with a strong artistic bent, designed some unusual modernistic pins for her. Came the day when Mrs. Wolchonek was able to make lapel pins that are conversation pieces—"Adam and Eve and the Snake," "Jonah in the Whale," a modernistic mask.

Bench Work
Both Miss Blatt and Mrs. Wolchonek will tell you that silver jewelry making is no project for the lazy. It calls for hours of study and bench work.

Here are Miss Blatt's instructions for making her scroll necklace (after you have practiced a while on simpler things):

Assemble these materials: A four by six inch square of 18 gauge sterling silver. Two feet of 16 gauge square silver wire. Fifteen inches of 20 gauge round wire. A small pointed brush (like a fine water color paint brush). A bottle of flux, a fluid used in soldering. A three inch square of silver solder. A tongue depressor from which you cut a strip a quarter of an inch wide, tracing paper, carbon paper, and a sharp-pointed pencil.

Use Acid Safely
Buy a sulphuric acid solution, one volume acid to 16 volumes water. Do not try to mix your own solution. Full strength sulphuric acid is dangerous; it burns skin and clothing, and is hazardous to eyes, skin or clothes. When working with it, do not dip anything into it with your fingers. Use brass tongs.

You will need these tools: A jeweler's saw with a No. 1 jeweler's blade, a half-round file, half-round pliers, an asbestos cloth, a mouth torch, steel oil, emery cloth, a hand drill and fine drill point. Add to that a jeweler's pin—a wedge of wood about three and a half inches wide, graduating from quarter inch thickness at one end to inch and a half thickness at the other. The thin end is notched in a vee; the thick end is driven into an opening in the edge of a table, leaving it four and a half to five inches long, and a firm narrow surface on which to saw silver.

Now you are ready to begin your necklace. On tracing paper draw a scroll three and a half inches long. Draw a similar small scroll pattern about an inch long. Draw the same small scroll with a long sweeping tail which will later be bent back to become the clasp.

Scroll Designs
Lay a piece of carbon paper on the sterling silver square, place the scroll designs on top of it and trace two big scrolls, six small ones and the one with the tail. Lay the silver on the jeweler's pin and with the jeweler's saw, cut out the designs. File the edges of the scrolls with a half-round file until they are smooth.

Take the 16 gauge square silver wire and, using the half-round pliers, bend the wire into a scroll shape following a line down the center of the scroll to make a central "vein" for it. Snip this off at the end with the pliers. Make a wire "vein" like this for each scroll, except the one designed for the clasp.

frost, bugs and other uncontrollable factors.

Other Victories
It seems that this isn't the first time the great American housewife has applied brakes to skyrocketing prices. She's done it recently in the ease of butter and she's done it with meat prices.

The main difficulty is staying outraged about high prices. We were all pretty steamed up when we heard that the old nickel cup was going to be raised to a dime. Then we got accustomed to the idea—and accustomed to the price per pound. We were real annoyed when the recent increase occurred. But it's been with us for quite a while now, so we're getting accustomed to it.

OPERA SINGING A BIG BUSINESS

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're an opera singer, you're a business.

But an extremely agreeable business, I conclude after an extremely agreeable talk with Eleanor Steber, Metropolitan Opera soprano.

Once upon a time an opera star traveled around the country in her private railroad car with an entourage consisting of husband, maids, manager, agent, teacher, even friends, and who-not.

It isn't so showy now, and a singer tours in accommodations like anyone else's, and with only an accompanist. But there's still a large staff on the job, even if the person stays at home. Miss Steber must have a full-time manager, a full-time agent-secretary, publicity person; a full-time accompanist; representatives in the music business here and abroad . . . and even a newspaper fellow like me to come around occasionally and tell all about it. She also has two or three homes, offices or studios.

Beauty In Opera
Miss Steber is one of the younger generation of opera stars, that is, one of the new-fangled singers who can go far on their looks even without a voice.

Singing at the Met for a dozen years or more, she still keeps a suspicion of the attractive drawl to which, as a West Virginian, she is entitled by birth.

Her husband, ex-newsman, once a publishers' representative, and a World War II veteran, is her manager, keeping a keen eye on contracts, investments, tax returns, and so on. She has a secretary and publicity agent; an accompanist; a maid, Arthur Judson is her American manager, and she has one in Europe.

Her entourage is not for show, but for blow. They work. They make all the plans made for a trip abroad, for instance, down to hotel reservations, train tickets, and how much she gets paid by whom and on what dates.

Lean Days
It wasn't always so lush. She can sit in the flouziest cocktail hour surroundings in this city and remember . . . daily . . . when she first came to town and lived in a $40-a-month Village flat with a leaky skylight and an electric coffee pot in which she and her young husband, young she and young husband, that is, cooked not only coffee but also tea, chocolate and wieners.

Studying in Boston, she missed two important prizes by a hair, or a decibel. At once deciding to move to New York and enter the lists from

Haddix A Bargain Counter Pitcher

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One of the happy bulwarks of the St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff this season has been their peppery left hander, Harvey Haddix. And his total cost to the Cards was $1.

"I heard about Haddix when I was running a tryout school at Columbus for the Cards," Al Bannister, a Cardinal executive, explained. "I sent for him to come up from his home on a farm at South Vienna, Ohio. After myself and two Cardinal scouts looked him over at Columbus, I asked Haddix what I owed him for coming up. He said 'Just a dollar for bus fare,' and that's what the Cardinals paid for the youngster."

"We were playing night games when he pitched for Columbus. He would work on the farm all day at South Vienna, then drive up to Columbus to play at night. I told him to forget the farm, to concentrate on baseball."

Better Passing
We also found that there was better passing from the conventional T than the split T because in the split T the quarterback worked up and down the line, whereas in the conventional T the quarterback went back to pass.

If the split T quarterback went back he would be destroying the value of the split T—the dive play or quick-opener into the line.

Most of our plays are passes—they develop as a threat of a run and if the other man commits himself we can go into a pass.

In the T you can hit any hole quicker than in the single wing where you have farther to travel.

Also, under the single wing you must have a boy who can do everything as your tailback; under the T this can be split up, with one back doing one thing and another back doing another thing. The result of this also is more deception.

Quick Handoffs
The split T's only advantage over the conventional T is that it develops the quick handoff to a finer point.

But don't get me wrong: I think all of the formations are good and that any of them will click with the proper personnel. I just happen to like the conventional T better since I know more about it and it has done a good job for me.

PARTY POLITICS BACK WITH BANG IN CALIFORNIA

Editor's Note—This is another of several stories by roving Associated Press political reporters analyzing the campaign in key states.

By MORRIS LANDSBERG
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—No matter where you look in this thousand-mile-long state, the big fact about the 1954 election is that party politics has come back—with a loud bang—to California.

There is more noise largely because more Democratic candidates are going into November balloting than ever before.

And in a state where "nonpartisanship" was the successful vogue for years under the primary cross-filing system which permits a candidate to seek both party nominations, candidates are being forced to choose sides—for or against the Eisenhower administration, for or against state platforms.

Democrats See Gains
For the first time in 40 years, the primary ballot listed the candidates' political affiliation. And the Democrats, with a 760,000 lead in registration, nominated their first full slate of the modern era.

Most candidates ran on both tickets, however, and Republican incumbents, holding every statewide office except attorney general, entered the fall campaign with a generally heavy advantage in the two-party vote.

Democratic leaders say they expect to pick up three or four seats in Congress, perhaps remove Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), who was appointed by former Gov. Earl Warren, and perhaps dump Warren's successor, Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Most Incumbents In Race
Kuchel, 44, a former state legislator and state controller, is standing election on "100 per cent" of President Eisenhower. His opponent, Rep. Samuel W. Yorty, 45 on Oct. 1, is an outspoken critic of the administration and of the 83rd Congress.

Knight, 57, lieutenant governor for eight years and a Los Angeles county judge for 13, is campaigning vigorously against a political newcomer, 47-year-old Richard P. Graves, longtime executive direc-

Union Pondering Many New Benefits

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An 11-point program of collective bargaining, including an annual wage clause and nine paid holidays, was before the membership of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO) today.

James B. Carey, IUE president, said the holidays should be spaced so that there would be one long weekend every quarter of the year, but the resolution did not specify what the holidays were to be.

The union's 450,000 members are to vote on the program and on another resolution calling for biennial instead of annual conventions. The IUE ended its meeting yesterday.

tor of the League of California Cities.

Of California's 30 U.S. Representatives, 18 of the 19 Republicans and 10 of the 11 Democratic incumbents are seeking re-election.

Jimmy A Show-in
James Roosevelt, whose 26th District voters nominated him handily despite his reputation by the Democratic National Committee, tabbed a show-in to succeed Yorty in the 24-1 Democratic district. The eldest son of the late President was asked to step out after his wife accused him of infidelities. He denied the charges. Roosevelt is opposed by Republican Theodore R. Owens, a less experienced campaigner.

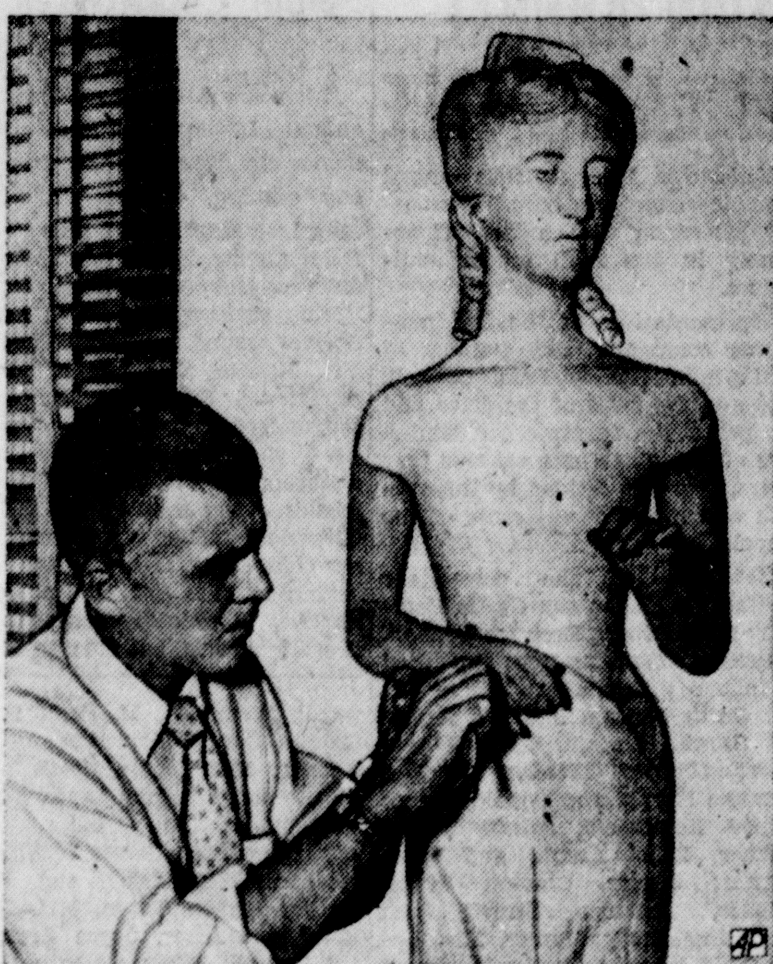

The Republicans are more hopeful of toppling Rep. Robert L. Condon of the 6th District. His opponent is John F. Baldwin Jr. Some neutral sources believe Condon may squeak through in the heavily Democratic and union-minded district despite the "security risk" pinned on him by the Atomic Energy Commission—unjustly, Condon contends.

The Democrats face some pretty tough figures from the primary.

Some Tough Figures
Knight, while losing the Democratic nomination to Graves, polled a two-party total of 1,917,591, a record for a gubernatorial candidate in the state. He emerged with a 900,000 vote margin over Graves. Kuchel's combined vote bettered Yorty's by 640,000.

The two Republicans drew heavy Democratic support, but the two Democrats attracted only a light Republican vote.

The primary election brought out 3,184,365, or 56 per cent, of the 5,654,688 voters. Election officials look for a 6-million registration and a larger turnout Nov. 2.

FARM UNIT TO PUSH NEW USES OF FARM GOODS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Marketing Conference today began formation of a state food planning committee to study suggestions offered for promotion or new uses for state farm products.

The council was authorized at the 12th annual meeting of the group here yesterday. Included on the council will be representatives of each statewide producer, distributor and processor organization.

Some 150 persons attended the meeting sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers Assn., the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council and the State Department of Agriculture.

Name Two To Group
Each representative group nominated one of its members and an alternate to sit on the council. Council procedures will be planned and a meeting date for the council will be set this week.

W. S. Hagar, acting agriculture secretary, told the group many carloads of frozen chicken and meat pies are coming into Pennsylvania every day from Midwestern and Southern states.

"We have no intention of setting up trade barriers," he said, "but why can't as good or better frozen pies be made in Pennsylvania, using Pennsylvania chickens, red meats, eggs, potatoes and vegetables?"

"This would make more business for our bakeries and stores and at the same time please the customer," he said.

The 20 million patients admitted to U.S. hospitals in 1953 totalled 2 3/4 times as many as 20 years ago.

LEADER HINTS "CHEATING" IN STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sen. George M. Leader said today "I have a suspicion that if we can ever get our hands on the books in Harrisburg we shall uncover conditions so unbelievably shocking they will make New Jersey's governmental cheaters look like freshmen in the school of political artifice."

Leader, Democratic nominee for governor, issued the statement after returning to the party's state headquarters from a week of campaigning in the central area of the state.

"It was only after a Democratic governor was elected in New Jersey that they were able to pry off this lid on governmental corruption and expose the unsavory Hoffman scandal," Leader said in his statement.

"Phony Profits"
"I have already exposed the fraudulent method used by the governor and the Liquor Control Board to juggle the liquor store fund and use it as a device for stating phony profits and enabling the Fine Administration to palm off false financial statements on the people of this commonwealth."

At St. Mary's last night, Leader defended his vote against the state loyalty oath law, which requires public employees and candidates for office to swear they are not members.

APPEAL RULING LIMITING WHITE HILL SENTENCES

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Commonwealth has appealed to the state Superior Court a judge's decision that the terms of all prisoners at the Pennsylvania Industrial School in Camp Hill are limited to six years.

According to Special Deputy Atty. Gen. Abraham J. Levy, the decision by Judge Louis E. Levinthal of Philadelphia Common Pleas Court would open the doors of freedom to "200 to 250 hardened criminals."

Levy, who took the matter to the Superior Court yesterday, contended that the act of July, 1953, on which Judge Levinthal's ruling was based, applied only to juveniles and minors sentenced after the passage of the measure.

No Two Classes
Judge Levinthal declared, however, that the State Legislature did not intend to establish two classes of inmates when it passed the act.

"It would seem clear," he said, "that the legislature must have considered the special nature of the Pennsylvania Industrial School as a reformatory consistently used bers of subversive organizations. Leader said his reason for voting against the bill in the Senate included "its discrimination against the patriotic Pennsylvania religious sections whose religious scruples prevent them from taking oaths, and by its insulting inference that Communist sympathizers are found particularly among public employees, school teachers and university faculty members."

Leader said he voted for the law outlawing the Communist party in Pennsylvania as "a workable document with teeth." That law, he said, "not only bit deeply into the thick hide of Communist infiltration but provided severe criminal reprisals against Moscovites espousing overthrow of our government."

by judges as a place of commitment for boys and young men most likely to be rehabilitated into useful members of society.

"The act of 1953 reducing the maximum term to six years was manifestly aimed at bringing the law into accord with the practices of the judges who have uniformly selected the reformatory as a place for offenders regarded as deserving of lenient rather than a severe sentence."

Maximum Was 20 Years
Before passage of the act, the maximum term was set at 20 years at the discretion of the state Board of Parole.

Levy filed his appeal and then appeared before Judge Levinthal with a petition of supersede as seeking to stay any action as a result of the decision.

The jurist's decision was handed down in the case of Abraham Lyons, 25, who was convicted of burglary in January, 1946, and admitted to Camp Hill for an indefinite period. After serving seven years, he was transferred to Eastern State Penitentiary.

Lyons' attorney, William J. Woolston, brought the action last June. He argued Lyons could be released because he had served more than six years.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash told the court it was the opinion of the district attorney's office that the legislature intended the provisions of the act to be retroactive.

DiMaggios Cling To Hitting Marks

BOSTON (AP)—A major league batting record which seems to be welded to the walls of the DiMaggio family trophy room is that of hitting safely in the most consecutive games. The present record of hitting safely in 56 straight games was set by the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio in 1941.

The only time Joe's record has been seriously threatened in the when Joe's brother, Dom DiMaggio hit safely in 34 consecutive games when he was centerfielder for the Boston Red Sox.

The Champion... for good reasons!

Dearborn-Wood Bros. CORN PICKER

Get Better, Cleaner Corn...Faster!

Here's the machine that led the field at the 1952 National Mechanical Corn Picking Contest near Rushville, Indiana. You, too, can get "prize winning" results, right on your own farm, when you harvest your crop with the Dearborn-Wood Bros. Corn Picker.

Capacity PLUS

One of the features largely responsible for the exceptional capacity of the Dearborn-Wood Bros. Corn Picker is its husking bed. As corn moves onto this extra large bed, the husking bed feed spreads ears evenly over the rolls. There are six big rolls; 3 rubber, 3 steel! They team up to remove husks fast, yet gently... with a minimum of shelling. As a result, you get more and better corn... with less work and in less time.

The Dearborn-Wood Bros. Corn Picker works in rows as narrow as 26"... attaches to any two-plow or larger tractor with A.S.A.E. Standard PTO and hitch.

Ask for a demonstration. Rely on a champion to help you build corn profits. Convenient terms available.

Spiral Husking Bed Feed has "flexible fingers" that gently spread ears evenly over all the husking rolls.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Pot Luck In Littlestown

Bob Snyder was busy taking pictures at the Littlestown football game last Saturday afternoon with the new motion picture camera given the school by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Wonderful gift, isn't it? Glad to hear Mrs. Charlie Weikert is feeling better. Bob Weaver home from Carlsbad with 24 wins during the baseball season. Most cheerful man in town early in the morning is barber, Johnny Redding. Marvin Breighner's recorded music and "Good Will Days" drawing announcements keeps the town in a jolly mood each Friday eve. L. H. S. began its magazine drive Wednesday afternoon. Let's help the students. Let's not forget the Food and Fashion Revue Tuesday night in the high school auditorium. Richard Thomas, high school faculty, pleased with the 40 boys who have reported for the seventh and eighth grade football team. In a couple of years, L. H. S. can look forward to much larger squads. Coach Wilb Gobrecht and boys looking forward to the game with York Catholic this evening. Should be real exciting. Can't talk to anyone in town during the afternoon. Everyone's glued to either TV sets or radios. Speaking of the series, Littlestown friends of Vic Wertz, Cleveland's first baseman, can't stop talking about his hitting Wednesday afternoon. The newly constructed surface on E. Myrtle St. gives Rolling Acres Elementary School a much better appearance. Lots safer for the children going to and from school. L.W.

"PAT" WEAVER YOUR INSURANCE MAN, SAYS:

The adjustment of windstorm losses to television antennas, long a headache to fire insurance companies, has become fairly well standardized. Most companies now insist on taking depreciation into consideration, with the life of a television antenna considered as being from 5 to 8 years. Thus, if your fire insurance company uses 6 years, and the antenna cost $100 three years ago, a total loss today would be adjusted at $50, since the antenna is 50% depreciated. All standard fire insurance policies provide that the company will pay "the actual cash value of the property at the time of loss." It is suggested that you read over your insurance policies, and ask your agent about anything you do not understand. Your local agent is always ready to serve you.

The articles on television antennas were written at the request of a customer. If you have other points on various phases of insurance you want explained, communicate with me and they will be discussed in future articles in this series on insurance.

grams. It was reported that a poster contest is being held in the schools under chairmanship of Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeaver. Mr. Knickerbocker reported flags of 30 nations and film strips available at the college library for U.N. programs by group during the week. Radford Lippy reported plans to secure 250 U.N. Week window posters with the Adams County Free Library Bookmobile to distribute the posters outside Gettysburg. A letter is to be sent all pastors of all county asking observance of U.N. Week in the churches.

Chairman Held asked a report after the week is over of all events held, "so we can find out just how many people participated in the programs."

Next meeting of the general committee will be held October 18 in connection with the dinner session.

TWO OFFICIALS DIFFER OVER LABOR POLICY

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) said today he was "amazed" that an Eisenhower administration family squabble had broken out publicly between Secretary of Labor James Mitchell and Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks.

Mitchell freely acknowledged at a news conference yesterday that he was having differences with Weeks on labor policies. It would "disturb" him, Mitchell said, if Weeks' views should prevail in the administration.

For his part, Weeks denied in a statement having any "split" with Mitchell but admitted that "our initial views on some subjects do not always coincide."

Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder, at the summer White House headquarters in Denver, said the President would have no comment.

Amazed Over Squabble

Capehart, saying he hadn't been aware of any differences between the two cabinet members, told a newsman "I'm amazed that they'd wash their dirty linen before the public—I'm amazed that Mitchell would bring out into the open what seems to be personal matters between the two."

While labor union leaders declined any immediate comment, it was recalled that AFL President George Meany had said some time ago Mitchell would be "as good a Secretary of Labor as brother Weeks allows him to be."

It has been common gossip around Washington for about a year that Mitchell and Weeks have had differences on administration labor proposals to Congress and on appointments to key administration labor jobs. But they kept their conflicts to themselves.

Mitchell, as his news conference began yesterday, apparently had no original intent of outlining his differences with Weeks. The subject blossomed as reporters asked questions.

The Secretary of Labor said he

Gamma Globulin Is Available To Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unrestricted sale of gamma globulin through prescription has been authorized to begin today, but there was some question as to how much of the anti-polio weapon would be available, and when.

The Office of Defense Mobilization announced yesterday that effective today manufacturers could sell it to drugstores without restriction. ODM has been controlling allocations of gamma globulin for use against polio under a voluntary agreement with producers and the states.

ODM said it will keep its present commitments to distribute GG to state health departments during the rest of this year.

is opposing proposals by Weeks to remove a present exemption on unions being included under the anti-trust laws.

Mitchell said, too, that he succeeded in persuading the Office of Defense Mobilization to refuse a request by Weeks to sell copper to business from government stockpiles. A shortage has resulted from a strike against copper producers in western states and from reduced Chilean imports.

Mitchell also had something to say about a recent speech by Asst. Secretary of Commerce Lathair Teetor which criticized congressional action this year in broadening unemployment compensation coverage.

Teetor couldn't have been speaking for the administration, Mitchell said, because the changes Teetor criticized had been recommended to Congress by Eisenhower.

Finally, Mitchell claimed that in his labor policy controversies with Weeks the Labor Department generally won out when it came to setting administration labor policy.

SEGREGATION'S FOES HAIL FIRST ROUND VICTORY

By BILL LOFTUS

MILFORD, Del. (AP) — Triumphant segregation forces said today the temporary defeat of integration in Milford's high school is "the first step toward our ultimate goal of making sure that no Negroes attend white schools in the state."

The pro-segregationists scored a victory yesterday when a new school board in Milford announced it was rescinding an order integrating 11 Negro pupils in the 10th grade of the Lakeview Ave. school "in the best interests of the pupils in the community."

The board's statement did not say whether segregation was permanent, or only effective for the period until the U.S. Supreme Court hands down its decision on how integration shall be carried out.

The president of the Delaware chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, Wagner P. Jackson, denounced the action as a "shameful, degrading spectacle of our duty constituted authority ignominiously surrendering to the illegal actions of a lawless mob." He said, "We have already begun planning our next legal action." He declined to elaborate.

Last night, the pro-segregationists held their eighth meeting in as many days and celebrated what was termed "a point won" by Bryant Bowles, president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, the spearhead of the drive against integration.

Bowles was asked what the group's stand would be after the U.S. Supreme Court hands down its decision and he said: "We won't adhere to that. They would be telling us how to do it and it is unconstitutional for the Supreme Court to make laws."

Recent research indicates that the common impression that athletes develop enlarged hearts and die young of heart disease is false. At least four ships have been sunk by charging whales.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
The Associated Press

Successful bird photography, according to the experts, depends on a knowledge of bird habits, use of the most modern photographic equipment, physical endurance, unlimited patience and zeal for the outdoor life to reach the inaccessible, natural feeding grounds.

Well, the experts are absolutely correct—except for a few minor details. I have just survived a major bird photographic expedition, have come back with interesting bird studies and would like to pass on specific details so that you, too, can become an expert closer to home.

"Know their feeding stations" is a basic rule. That was easy for me. The birds were eating the cherries off my two little back yard trees.

Study Habits

"Study their habits." That, too, was easy. They chose only the ripest cherries, flew a few feet to my porch roof, devoured the fruit and left the pits. Then back for a second helping and more pits on the roof. The dubious honor of owning a genuine pitted roof spurred me on to take pictures of the culprits.

"Modern equipment" usually meant telephoto lenses, automatic cameras with robot negative changes operated by remote control apparatus. I've also read of elaborate arrangements whereby birds triggered their own pictures by flying into an electronic beam which set off stroboscopic lights simultaneously with the camera shutter. That's where I parted company with the experts.

Press Type Camera

I set up my 4"x5" press type camera on a tripod on the roof and carefully focused on an area about 6 feet away. I set the speed at 1-200th second and the shutter at f-11. The Speed Graphic lens had a solenoid tripper. That enabled me to attach a 25-foot electric wire extension to the flashgun. When I pressed the flashgun button, the solenoid tripped the shutter and an exposure was made 25 feet away.

"Seek cover or construct a blind." I found cover in the second-floor bathroom. From the window, I had an unobstructed view of the cherry trees, the pitted roof and the camera. The latter needed a blind, so I camouflaged it by draping some cherry tree branches on top.

SUDDEN STORM KILLS GIRL, 3

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A powerful windstorm smashed into a north-eastern Ohio farmhouse last night killing a 3-year-old girl and injuring her mother, father and infant brother.

tornado—leveled every building on the farm of James Smiley near Minerva, Ohio, after his family had gone to bed. Carrie Smiley was killed.

City hospital in Alliance said Smiley, 34, was in fair condition and his wife, Alice, 30, and their 14-month-old son, James Allen, were in "fairly good" shape.

The storm toppled homes, swept off roofs, uprooted trees and tore down power lines in the area and then blew itself out in Pennsylvania. No damage estimates were available.

HIS NO BACHELOR

CHICAGO (AP) — Circuit Judge Maurice J. Schultz has ordered a 52-year-old married man to stop going around proclaiming himself a bachelor. The injunction was issued against Frank A. Palumbo on the complaint of Mrs. Palumbo.

The highest automobile road in the United States reaches the summit of Mt. Evans — 14,260 feet — says the National Geographic Society.

FIRE ON DEMAND

MAQUOKETA, Iowa (AP) — The volunteer fire department says the firemen need some old buildings which they may set ablaze in order to practice new fire-fighting methods. Anyone in the area having an old shed, barn or other structure he wishes to dispose of can get action by notifying the fire chief.

The length of time colored clothes are washed may cause them to lose color. So if you use a washing machine, keep them in the machine only long enough to get them clean. To avoid the need for long or hard washing, colored clothes should not be allowed to become badly soiled before laundering.

Sailors' Send-Off Lands Lady In Water

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A sentimental brunette gave Brazilian sailors a send-off they won't soon forget. Nor she either.

As the training vessel Almirante Saldanha was about to sail yesterday, Lucille Lupita ran to the dockside to toss a flower to her boy friend on board.

She lost her balance and fell into the water.

Four sailors dived in for the rescue. The boy friend, presumably, was among them.

Miss Lupita was treated by the ship's doctor and put ashore. Then the Brazilians put out to sea.

Takes Super-Parents For Today's Smart Children

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Today's children are so smart that it's a super-parent who can keep up with them, says Don A. Walter of Chicago, managing editor of the Children's Encyclopedia, Britannica Junior.

It also keeps the encyclopedia editors and their army of research specialists hopping to provide the answers.

Today's kids ask such questions as this: "How does it feel to break the supersonic barrier?" "What do boys in Indochina do for fun?" "When can I have a space ship?" and "What's it like on Mars?"

TV Helps Teach

World War II and the Korean War along with atomic developments and other sensations of the last decade have given children so many new questions to ask that it's enough to stagger even a staff of encyclopedia experts, says Walter. "We keep hundreds of people busy constantly revising our volumes, just to keep up with the ever-widening field of children's interests."

May Lose Their Jobs

"Then there's television. This has changed the whole perspective of children's interests, widening them almost to the entire field of human knowledge."

"The parent who actually tries to answer all the answers the average boy or girl asks in a year will end up with a liberal education himself."

Walter believes too many textbooks are written from the adult's viewpoint, and thinks a board of junior editors could improve the product of many textbook publishing houses.

There's just one catch to all this. If the kids get any smarter, all the grown-up editors will be looking for jobs.

Young Swimmer Drowns In Creek

LEBANON, Pa. (P)—Thomas Eugene Harlan, 9, of Lebanon R.D. 3, drowned in a creek near his home here yesterday.

State police said the boy went swimming with his brother and another friend after the three had missed their school bus.

The boy's brother, Paul 10, and Robert Krall, 10, told police Thomas jumped into Swatara Creek and disappeared beneath the surface of the water.

They called for help and an employee of a nearby feed mill pulled the boy's body from the creek.

Truck Overturns, Driver Is Killed

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (P)—A 35-year-old Mount Union man was killed near here yesterday when the bakery truck he was driving overturned on Rt. 22 pinning him underneath.

Cpl. Andrew Royko of the state police said Robert Wilson apparently came out of a side road and made a right turn onto Rt. 22. The policeman said Wilson swerved to avoid colliding with a tractor trailer truck, causing his truck to turn over.

Walter Hess, Marcus Hook, was operating the other truck, Royko said, and struck a bank on the highway when he swerved to miss Wilson.

Hess was treated at Lewistown Hospital for shock.

Chronic hunger is one reason a Chinese farmer produces only about one thirteenth as much as an American farmer, says the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

IT COULD BE the president of a big corporation...or the president of a bank...or the President of the U.S.A. But it isn't any of these. It's the worker who helped build the car he owns...who has stock in the company he works for...and cash in the bank for the future.

In America everyone who earns and saves is a capitalist—a stockholder in the free enterprise system that makes America's standard of living the highest in the world. Working and saving in this way produces lasting benefits for all.

So when someone calls you a capitalist, stick out your chest. He's saying that you are a member of the American productive team. Who wants to be anything else?

We invite you to bank your dollars here—where you have multiple safeguards for your money...where every account is important, regardless of its size.
